FROM THE STATION MANAGER

It's a new year and we are filled with optimism of what lies ahead. The invitation to the grand re-opening of Lionsrock, wowed us and got the year off to a positive start. It was a bittersweet moment when we said goodbye to Richardt Greene and then welcomed Philip Heymans back behind the microphone. After a break, Marian Human-Nel is also back onboard. Preparations are underway for the Radio Maluti AGM (Annual General Meeting) which is to be held in March. This is a meeting not to be missed.

Lionsock is a big cat sanctuary. It is a project run by the global welfare organisation, Four Paws. The invitation to the grand re-opening of the sanctuary made a big impression on us. Bethlehem is truly fortunate to have a facility such as this on its doorstep which meets international standards. The promotion of tourism to our area is something we will be looking at this year.

When Richardt Greene announced that he was relocating to Bloemfontein, we popped the question to Phillip Heymans and we were delighted that he said yes. Phillip is now back in his Drive Time slot. It is also a warm welcome back to Marian Human-Nel. Marian's weekly book reading in the morning, is something not to be missed.

The radio landscape has undergone a noticeable change in the past year. The aftereffects of Covid-19 compounded by the heavy toll of rolling blackouts has changed the world as we know it. In order for Radio Maluti to survive, innovation and creativity have been key. At the AGM, the Radio Maluti team will share the trials and tribulations as well as the triumphs of the past year. For Radio Maluti to go forward and realise its potential, support of the community is needed. In short, it needs your participation!

Wishing you all the very best for this new year!

Radio greetings
